Greetings Zygotepress friend!

If you have been to our place over the last year, you have surely gotten a taste of the palpable enthusiasm and creativity that is flowing from our artists and staff. For 15 years, Zygotepress has been building steam—we now serve 25 artist-residents and have an average of 50 artists using our workshop per month. In 2010, our programs and exhibitions mixed together new audiences with tried and true Zygotians, enriching each experience for everyone involved. The recipe for creating a successful and longstanding cultural institution in Cleveland has been tested and is being constantly perfected, thanks to the sweet support of people like you.

What are we stirring up for 2011?

- If you attended this year's ArtOberfest, you may have gotten a chance to do the Print Pony Gallup—a ride-on printing press—and our newest way to spread the word about printmaking at public events and institutions all over the region, along with our Press-on-Wheels and our traveling Printmaking Expedition Project (PEP).
- Collaborations with the Lit, COSE Arts Network, Cleveland Public Art and more.
- A full and diverse exhibition schedule; visits from local schools and organizations as well as visiting artists and groups from all over the world; great classes taught by a wide range of skilled artists; the Dresden Residency Exchange; the Monothon and 15th anniversary events.
- We're going digital and taking it on the road—with our zyPRINT cart! This combination of technology and old-school print processes will allow our artists to teach cross-over techniques to students and teachers alike.

Since 1996 Zygotepress has grown into a cutting-edge arts resource center with an international presence. Our current revenue sources include studio and locker rentals, art sales, grants, and contributions from our wonderful FoZ's (Friends of Zygotepress.) Your financial assistance is the key ingredient we need to keep giving Clevelanders our full menu of programs and exhibitions year after year!

Our goal for Annual Giving 2010 is $12,500—any amount you can spare and share will sustain the major objectives that we will implement in 2011. Our mission is to provide artists and the greater Northeast Ohio community with an exceptional, collaborative printmaking workshop, first-rate gallery and expanded educational activities that include venturing into new collaborations. Through our wide-ranging programs Zygotepress has attracted artists and audiences from the region and beyond to explore and learn more about printmaking.

Please fill out the attached envelope and enclose your generous gift, or go to www.zygotepress.com to make a secure tax-deductible donation through PayPal. Zygotepress's salty and sweet approach has brought in thousands of visitors over the last 15 years—we want you to stick with us and proudly support visual arts in our community. Sustaining Zygotepress and our mission affirms that this unique organization is meaningful to you. By supporting Zygotepress you demonstrate a commitment to artists and arts education in Greater Cleveland.
